The Honors Program at Prairie View A&M University is a four-year interdisciplinary course of study designed to produce future global leaders. This academic program concentrates on the development of intellectual curiosity and offers a comprehensive honors curriculum to cultivate critical thinking, active learning, and stellar leadership skills.

The primary objective of this program is to provide a variety of scholarly activities and advanced courses for outstanding undergraduate students who value and seek rigorous academic challenges. To achieve this goal, Honors courses are designed to stimulate intellectual exchanges in small seminar classes, where students learn how to refine a range of academic skills and talents.

The development of a philosophical habit of mind, academic training, historical consciousness, and an aggressive pursuit of knowledge in all disciplines is the basis of an Honors program. Only the most committed and talented professors at Prairie View A&M University will teach Honors courses with the intent to create a shared dialogue among students majoring in: education, engineering, natural sciences, architecture, nursing, agriculture, arts and humanities, behavioral sciences, business, juvenile justice, communications, as well as other majors offered at the university.

Every Honors student is encouraged to learn one or more of the foreign languages offered in the program: Chinese, Arabic, French or Spanish. The importance of learning and applying foreign language skills to any academic discipline will substantially enhance the overall educational background and future of each student. Hence, an emphasis on study abroad opportunities is also a major expectation for each student in this program.

An additional goal of the Honors program is to provide diverse leadership development opportunities for every honors student. Many of the Honors courses include service-learning components to encourage students to create community-wide service projects related to their courses. For example, the required course for all Honors students—Introduction to Honors involves research methodology and historical writing, yet students are required to present their final research projects on current global issues to public audiences at local community centers and elementary schools as well as at organized open forums on the university campus. Public speaking is often required of those in leadership positions; therefore, these activities are offered to expose honors students to real life expectations.
